Improving Housing Outcomes Summit, WA 2007

According to the UDIA's recent report, "Housing shortfalls could go from 23,000 currently to about 115,000 by 2010". If that prediction holds true, then the current socio-economic side effects we are currently seeing could be merely a blip on the radar compared to what is to come for WA in the near future.

Improving Housing Outcomes Summit, WA 2007 pulls together methodologies and case studies aimed specifically at improving the structure, effectiveness and design of WA housing policies and lays the foundation for a more stable housing future through the creation of realistic, innovative and manageable solutions.

This conference is this year's premier educational conference, a two day event, bringing the best minds from around WA and the country to design forward-thinking strategies that will go some way to fixing the Western Australian housing affordability crisis.

There has been plenty of finger pointing regarding how housing affordability has got to this point, but what is really needed NOW is a broad forum for both the public and private sector to collaboratively put their best foot forward. Improving Housing Outcomes takes a deeper look behind the standard land supply and release issues, interest rates and taxes and focuses on the creation of a wider spectrum of solutions.

Why You Should Attend this conference:

- Hear from The Hong Kong Polytechnic University about the relationship between housing affordability and economic development in mainland China and how it bears many lessons for WA
- Hear how Foundation Housing is implementing partnerships with the private sector to deliver housing more effectively
- Learn how the Bowen Basin in Queensland implemented a viable social housing strategy in an economic climate that mirrors WA's
- Hear WALGA's ideas on how all three tiers of government and housing associations can work effectively and strategically to deliver improved housing outcomes
- Get up-to-date on the state of affordable housing from Shelter WA
- Get the latest economic forecasts and likely housing trends from ANZ, HIA and Suncorp
- Get a better understanding of Master Planned Communities and their key role in the future of housing affordability in WA from Satterley Property Group

Call +61 2 9229 1037 to register yourself and your team now!

I look forward to meeting you in December.

Kind regards

How to Initiate Private Partnerships to Deliver Improved Housing Outcomes

Morning 8:30AM-11:30AM

PPPs (Public Private Partnerships) have enjoyed considerable success in the UK and US and it looks like Australia will continue to move in that direction. But how do you successfully get them off the ground and what are the most important things that should be considered when looking to attract investment in social housing from the private sector? This workshop is designed to help Heads of Housing to design a framework to plan, build and launch effective PPPs that yield visible results.

IN THIS WORKSHOP YOU WILL LEARN:

- How to build effective, strategic & sustainable relationships with private partners that can deliver affordable housing
- How to attain faster and cheaper project delivery through PPPs
- How to establish innovative predevelopment, site acquisition and bridge loans to affordable housing developers

- How to plan, prepare and negotiate a PPP contract

About Your Expert Tutor:

Hans Gerritsen has a background in Banking & Finance with emphasis on the property development field in his earlier role as State Manager Property Finance & Development Ventures with ESANDA, an arm of the ANZ Banking Group. In 1996 Hans moved to the Community sector as CEO for Perth Inner City Housing Association (City Housing). During his period with City Housing the housing stock of the Association was expanded from 125 units to in excess of 300.

Upon the merger of City Housing to form Foundation Housing Ltd, Hans elected to go back to a production role and in his present role has responsibility for a capital works program of some $40m and is working with the private development sector in an effort to deliver continual affordable housing components in major land developments.

B

How to Put Affordable Developments out to Market

Afternoon 12:30PM-3:30PM

The rapid increase in the lack of affordable housing has been at crisis point for quite some time. Land supply, government fees, taxes and charges are but some of the compounding issues that contribute with the availability of affordable developments. More and more individuals and families are being forced into unsuitable accommodation and in some cases turned away from crisis housing. In this session Gary Prattley will outline strategies and plans that can enable developers, local governments and community/social housing providers to construct and deliver affordable developments out into the market.

IN THIS WORKSHOP YOU WILL LEARN:

- How to effectively deal with affordability constraints
- How to develop strategies for local governments, developers and housing providers that enable lower income earners to enter the market
- How to ensure developers can make a profit through affordable housing
- How to provide safe and suitable rental housing for low-middle income earners

About Your Expert Tutor:

Gary Prattley, National Planning Director, Macroplan Australia. Gary has 35 years experience in planning and urban development throughout Australia and New Zealand. Gary joined MacroPlan in February 2006 to take on the role of National Director of Planning and to establish a permanent office for MacroPlan in Sydney.

He has been responsible for running the planning systems in Tasmania, the ACT and Western Australia. In 2001 Gary left his role as Chief Executive of the Western Australian Ministry for Planning to take on the challenging role of Executive Director Metropolitan Planning in Sydney. And in the last five years he has had a leading role in shaping Sydney's future development.

Gary has chaired the National Planning Officials Group for a number of years and has an extensive network across Government and Industry in Australia and brings tremendous experience in strategic and planning process to the MacroPlan Team through his role as National Director of Planning.

C

How to Prolong the Lives of Ageing Residential Building Stocks

Evening 4.00PM - 7.00PM

This workshop will look at innovative and practical strategy design for prolonging and reinvigorating ageing residential building stock for reuse as affordable housing. Based on an 18 month research project in Hong Kong in 2005, attendees of this workshop will evaluate the main legal, social, economic, management and technological issues associated with repairing and converting ageing building stock.

IN THIS WORKSHOP YOU WILL LEARN:

- How to identify practical solutions to maintain a safe living environment
- How to prolong the lives of target buildings on a sustainable basis
- How to deduce lessons relevant to the future of new residential developments

About Your Expert Tutor:

Professor Francis Wong is Head of the Department of Building and Real Estate (BRE), as well as Director of the Research Centre for Construction and Real Estate Economics (RCCREE) of the Hong Kong Polytechnic University. He has more than 27 years of both academic and practical experience, and has published more than a hundred papers.

He obtained his BSc (Hons) in Building from the Brighton Polytechnic, MSc in Architecture from the London University, and his PhD from the South Bank University. He is a Fellow Member of the Chartered Institute of Building (FCIOB), a Fellow Member of the Hong Kong Institute of Construction Managers (FHKICM), and a Fellow Member of the Hong Kong Institution of Engineers (FHKIE).

D

The A-Z of Planning Green, Sustainable and Affordable Communities

Evening 5:30PM - 8:30PM

This workshop will take a step-by-step look at green and sustainable building design. Attendees will get an insight into the optimum design, building, renovation, operation and reuse of housing stock in an eco-friendly and resource-efficient manner and learn how this impacts affordable housing. It will also take a deeper look at the primary objectives of green and sustainable housing developments and assess what aspects of planning should be taken into account when planning, launching and managing affordable, sustainable communities.

IN THIS WORKSHOP YOU WILL LEARN:

- Why we need to create more green and affordable housing
- The new mantra TOD, POD and GOD: Transit oriented development, Pedestrian oriented development, Green oriented development
- How does affordable housing fit into this package?
- What are the planning mechanisms to make this happen?

About Your Expert Tutor:

Peter Newman is the Professor of City Policy and Director of the Institute for Sustainability and Technology Policy, at Murdoch University.

In 2006/7 he was in the US as a Fulbright Scholar at the University of Virginia Charlottesville, examining innovations in sustainability in US cities, regions and states. This is based on comparative work he did in Western Australia at the political level when he worked with the Premier of WA from 2001 to 2004 to develop the State Sustainability Strategy; this was the first state in the world with such a strategy, covering 42 areas of government. He is well known in Perth for his work in rebuilding Perth's rail system which is now seen as a model for modern cities. He is the Chair of Habitat for Humanity in WA. Peter's academic work includes his book with Jeff Kenworthy 'Sustainability and Cities: Overcoming Automobile Dependence' which was launched in the White House in 1999 and his 2001 co-authored book is called 'Back on Track: Rethinking Australian and New Zealand Transport.' Peter is the author of the chapter on Greening Urban Transportation in Worldwatch Institute's 'State of the World, 2007'.
